

Indeed, we honor cherish and learn from those generations before us and we must always live, work, and strive on behalf of those generations yet unborn.

I agree with Senator BYRD. It is the quality of the vote, and I would also add another. With Senator BYRD, it is the quality of the man.

With his steadfast service to the people of West Virginia, and his dogged defense of the U.S. Constitution, Senator BYRD's quality shines through like the brightest of beacons on the darkest of nights.

They say that records are made to be broken, but I believe this record will never be broken, just as nothing will ever break Senator BYRD's spirit and his love for his State.

Senator BYRD continues to be my mentor and most importantly my friend, and I would like to offer my heart felt congratulations to Senator BYRD for this remarkable achievement.

PAYING TRIBUTE TO CHRIS JOUFLAS

HON. SCOTT MCINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, April 1, 2004

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, it is a privilege to rise today and pay tribute to Chris Joufflas of Grand Junction, Colorado, for his dedication to his community, state, and nation. Chris has spent his life as a sheep rancher in the mountains and valleys of Colorado and Utah, and has done much to better his Colorado community.

Chris' father immigrated to the United States in 1907, and was one of the first Greek immigrants to arrive on the Western Slope. He started the family ranching business in 1910, and it soon grew to thousands of acres for ranching and grazing in Colorado and Utah. Soon after marrying his wife Connie in 1953, Chris took over the family ranching business and successfully guided it until 1992. The family still owns a 2000-acre ranch near Wolcott, Colorado, where Chris' oldest daughter and family live, and Chris stays actively involved with the ranching community.

For anyone who has skied the beautiful slopes in Vail, Colorado, they probably have Chris, and the Greek liqueur Ouzo, to thank in part. In the 1960s, and then again in the 1970s, Chris sold parts of his sheep herding land to Vail Associates in deals brokered by Chris's favorite bargaining tool, Ouzo. These legendary deals allowed for some of Vail's most well known runs to be created, and a ski run has since been named after the Greek liqueur.

Mr. Speaker, it is with a great deal of satisfaction that I rise and pay tribute to Chris Joufflas before this body of Congress and this nation today. It is clear that he has spent his life dedicated to the Colorado ranching community and the State of Colorado. It is my pleasure to honor Chris here today, and wish him the best in his future endeavors.

TRIBUTE TO CESAR CHAVEZ

HON. LORETTA SANCHEZ

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, April 1, 2004

Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Cesar Chavez, a man who bravely fought against labor injustices and paved the way for the many rights enjoyed by this nation's workers.

Mr. Chavez grew up on the fruit and vegetable fields and learned first hand the plight of labor workers and the terrible conditions they endured.

Chavez rose from those fields and became the head of the United Farm Workers of America. When the UFW began their strikes in the 1960's in protest of the treatment of farm workers, Chavez led the successful cause with support from unions, church groups and students.

After the strikes were over, Chavez maintained the fight to ensure greater minority rights by fighting for greater educational and political opportunities.

One can not deny the great impact Chavez had on the millions of labor workers in this country. His bravery and determination proved that blue-collar workers are an invaluable part of the American economy.

MEDICAL MALPRACTICE RELIEF ACT OF 2004

HON. MAX SANDLIN

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, April 1, 2004

Mr. SANDLIN. Mr. Speaker, the root causes of the crisis in our Nation's medical malpractice insurance system are numerous and complex. Unfortunately, while Congress debates the various approaches to reform, doctors, hospitals, and other healthcare providers face the harsh reality of skyrocketing premiums today.

Ensuring that Americans continue to have access to doctors of all specialties while Congress finds a comprehensive solution to this crisis is crucial. A temporary, but immediate malpractice premium tax credit would provide much-needed relief to healthcare providers who want to continue offering care, but are struggling to pay their malpractice premiums.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to join today with 30 of my colleagues in introducing the Medical Malpractice Relief Act of 2004, which would allow doctors, hospitals and nursing homes to claim a tax credit for a percentage of the malpractice premiums they are paying and will pay during tax years 2004 and 2005.

Doctors who specialize in an area with increased risk of complications would be eligible for a tax credit equivalent to 20 percent of their total malpractice premium. The credit could be taken for premiums up to twice the average for a similarly situated doctor, i.e. same specialty and geographic area.

High-risk doctors include those in all surgical specialties and subspecialties, emergency medicine, obstetrics or anesthesiology; or who do interventional work that is reflected in their malpractice premiums.

Doctors who practice in lower risk specialties, such as general medicine, allergy, dermatology and pathology would be eligible for a tax credit equivalent to 10 percent of their total malpractice premium. The credit could be taken for premiums up to twice the average for a similarly situated doctor, i.e. same specialty and geographic area.

For-profit hospitals and nursing homes would be eligible for a tax credit equivalent to 15 percent of their total malpractice premium. The credit could be taken for premiums up to twice the average for a similarly situated hospital.

As many American hospitals and nursing homes are nonprofit institutions that do not pay taxes, this legislation would establish a 2-year grant program in the Health Resources Services Administration at the Department of Health and Human Services.

Nonprofit hospitals would be eligible for grants up to 15 percent of their malpractice premiums. The maximum allowable grant would be for premiums up to twice the average malpractice premium among similarly situated hospitals.

Mr. Speaker, medical providers across the country are facing a crisis, and they need our help now. Accordingly, I urge my colleagues in the People's House to act now to provide physicians, hospitals, and nursing homes the relief they need, so that they can turn their full attention to their genuine calling—caring for our Nation's health. I hope the House will take up this carefully targeted piece of legislation soon and provide our Nation's health care providers the relief they need.
